Port of Melbourne

Port Wide Security CCTV Project

Port of Melbourne is enhancing its CCTV network to improve visibility across key landside areas and support faster, more informed responses to safety, security and traffic incidents.

About the project

The project builds on earlier upgrades to existing CCTV infrastructure. New poles and cameras are being installed at designated locations across the port to provide coverage uplift and improve operational visibility of roads, rail corridors and other key areas.

What the upgrade will help deliver

- Improved coverage of operational areas to protect critical port infrastructure.
- Better visibility to support road and rail planning and traffic management.
- Additional support for emergency responders and authorities to understand what has occurred during an incident and take appropriate action.

Where will cameras be located

Cameras will be installed at designated locations across the port of Melbourne that provide visibility of key port roads, rail corridors and operational areas. Some cameras may be visible from surrounding public areas.

Installation of new infrastructure

Installation is being delivered across port precincts.

Work areas are managed with appropriate safety controls at individual sites.

Port of Melbourne communicates project updates and site-specific notifications are provided when relevant and available.

Project at a glance

Purpose

Improve safety, security and operational visibility.

Where

Across Port of Melbourne's 534-hectares landside footprint.

Timing

Installation of cameras will be completed progressively until end of Q1 2027.

Outcome

Improved visibility of port road activity, helping Port of Melbourne respond to incidents more efficiently and provide clearer, more timely updates to tenants when needed.

Keeping you informed

Port of Melbourne thanks the port community, tenants, operators and nearby stakeholders for their cooperation while delivering port projects.
